ACADEMIC ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Roles:

The AAC's primary function is to advise the program director or department chair on matters related to the academic program's quality, effectiveness, and continuous improvement.

Responsibilities:

- Curriculum Review and Development: Analyze and recommend improvements to the curriculum, ensuring its alignment with current trends, best practices, and accreditation standards.
- Learning Outcomes: Review and suggest improvements to program learning outcomes, ensuring clarity, measurability, and alignment with program goals and industry needs.
- Teaching and Assessment Methods: Evaluate the effectiveness of teaching methods and suggest improvements. This might involve recommending innovative pedagogies, technology integration, or assessment tools.
- Program Evaluation and Assessment: Develop and oversee a plan to evaluate the program's effectiveness, analyzing student performance, faculty effectiveness, and overall program outcomes.
- Resource Allocation: Provide recommendations on resource allocation for the program, considering faculty development, equipment needs, or student support services.
- Industry Engagement: Facilitate connections with industry professionals to ensure the program aligns with current job market demands. This could involve guest lectures, internship opportunities, or curriculum development collaborations.
- Student Success: Review student success metrics (e.g., graduation rates, job placement) and recommend strategies to improve student learning, engagement, and overall success.
